- * No more going between apps when using multiple displays
- * No more problems when switching between games and apps while using multiple displays

This tool works with games, other applications and the browser. Borderless Gaming is a tiny, but useful tool that enables you to play your favorite video games that are available in windowed mode only in fullscreen. It optimizes games to be streamed at any resolution. First off, it is worth mentioning that for the app to work, you need to make sure that the game or application you are running is in windowed mode. Moreover, in case the application you need to run in fullscreen does not have graphic settings and has no reasonable option in this sense, then you can consider posting about it in the Steam community forum to get some help. The idea behind the tool is to lend you a hand with running the app in fullscreen and streaming at any desired resolution, regardless if the function exists or not. The highlight stems from the fact that it does so without you having to worry about alt-tabbing to look for a tutorial in the browser or change your music, for instance. Most importantly, it prevents crashes that commonly result from switching between various apps. Designed to work smoothly with multiple monitors. Functionality-wise, the tool is as simple to use as it looks. Therefore, once you enable the windowed mode in-game or inside the app, you open the program and it takes care of the rest. The idea behind the app is to remove the load time for switching between games and apps in a safe manner that does not affect the functionality of what you are accessing in any way. While it works great with one monitor, its real power is unleashed when you use multiple monitors. Not only does it detect all active windows running on your system, but you can switch back to windowed mode with just one click. In addition, some users stated that the tool also allows you to select the monitor the game is played on without you having to change the primary display. A reliable app for launching apps in fullscreen without any side effects. All things considered, Borderless Gaming is a utility designed to help you make the most out of your video games: – Borderlands 2 – Dragon Age 2 – Counter-Strike: Global Offensive – Game of Thrones If it is not working with a game you own, it is possible that it does not support Full-Screen, which means that the game can be played in full-screen but the fullscreen mode does not automatically kick in when the app opens. Check with the game developer on what type of Fullscreen they allow, for example:– Steam for Windows / Windows 7/ 8 How To Use: 1. Open Borderless Gaming in your OS's Start menu. 2. Now, you need to make sure that the currently running game in fullscreen is in windowed mode. Once you have a game running in windowed mode, open Borderless Gaming and confirm the window's resolution. 3. Click on the monitor in Borderless Gaming and all app windows on your display will get pushed down to the desktop. 4. Now, if you like, you can navigate the desktop and launch your other apps directly from there. 5. Like its name suggests, the app allows you to switch back to windowed mode with just one click. Borderless Gaming Features: Uniformized video stream You do not need to bother about different video overlays when playing different games. The same app should work on all of them. No need to use ALT-TAB The app works with games that are in windowed mode. Also, it has no complications with games which do not support full-screen. Reliable method to switch games to windowed mode It can make an app full-screen while leaving the other apps in windowed mode at the same time. Supports multiple monitors You can open one game on each screen or do an overlay of all of the open games.
