Downloading MacOS Sierra 10.12.6 Update What's the current version of Xcode?Q: Laravel 5.1: Get route name from controller method I have a route in my Laravel 5.1 Application, it is set like this: Route::get('/', 'HomeController@foo'); And it is a simple action in my controller: public function foo() { return view('foo'); } What I'd like to have is a global way to return the route name (in foo() above). I've searched and looked around but have found no solution, so I was wondering if there is a way to get it? A: You can get it from Illuminate\Routing\Route object $route = Route::get('/', 'HomeController@foo'); echo $route->getName(); A: Since Laravel 5.2, you can use the name function of the Route object to get the route name. Also, you can get the route in the constructor of the controller: $this->router->getName(); Huawei has confirmed a new flagship model will be released this month but has refused to give any specifics. I am creating a webapp for a new client. My primary requirement is that it will have a 1280x1024 resolution. My problem is when I test the layout at 1280x1024 the absolute positioning does not work, I have put my html and css code below. My reasoning is that it is the resolution and content size. @charset "UTF-8"; #container { position: absolute; top: 5%; right: 15%; 3e33713323
