Mouse X 5 is a easy-to-use tool that allows you to work with your mouse just like you'd use a trackball. It gives you the ability to position your cursor with a sensitivity setting that suits your particular style. All of the different features are stored within the tool, so you can quickly and easily access all of the settings you want to customize. Mouse X 5 is compatible with all Mac OS and Windows platforms, so you can use it on a Mac or PC. Mouse X 5 is based upon the X-MousePro program which has been sold by MacZone for over 10 years. Before Mouse X 5 comes into play, you must enable X-MousePro in your Mac OS X system, which is done by selecting the 'xpro://' protocol within your browser. Once Mouse X 5 has been enabled in your Mac, you can access the mouse by pressing command-O. Mouse X 5 then automatically comes into play and works as if you were using a trackball. With Mouse X 5 you can: * Choose the sensitivity of the cursor to trackball like movement. * Customize the color of the cursor. * Set the sensitivity of the mouse wheel. * Switch between using the mouse and the trackball. * Disable the trackball mode. * Place a button on the screen which allows you to select what Mouse X 5 should respond to. * View all of the different modes of Mouse X 5. Mouse X 5 also allows you to change the way that it will respond when you press one of the trackball buttons. You can view and change these settings by pressing command-I. You can also add new buttons by pressing the button shortcut key. This allows you to easily add new buttons for selecting settings, or for performing other functions. Mouse X 5 has the ability to automatically activate itself when you first open it. This way you don't have to open the program each time you want to use it. Mouse X 5 also allows you to add a menu
