Pros can get your images to match a particular style. They can smooth or blur or sharpen your images. They can enhance or color correct your images. They can apply special effects like embossing and drop shadows. They can distort your images for fun. Here are some image editing techniques you can employ to strengthen or mend your images:

- * Blend: This feature creates _exact_ pixel matches between layers by blending one layer into another. For example, you can use this method to create a "translucent" or "ghost" layer over your image. If you don't see the layer, you can still merge it. In the next section, we show you how.
- * Burn: You can apply a stylized style to an image by using the Burn tool to eliminate the highlights and shadows of the subject and leave only its highlights and shadows intact. Although you can easily create a similar effect by using the Shadows/Highlights adjustment, you can't adjust the intensity of the effect by varying the opacity of the layer (Burn is transparent by default).
- * Effects: You can apply various visual styles like vibrance, saturation, and color to your images, or you can use the Filters panel to apply special effects, such as embossing and dropping a shadow. You can also add items like text to your images, such as names and logos.
- * Enhance: This feature enables you to clean or fix up a poor-quality image. You can use it to resize, edit, restore, and fill in damage spots on your image.
- * Gamma: This feature creates a slight color shift by adjusting the Gamma value. For example, a Gamma value of 0.75 increases the image color while a value of 1.25 decreases it.
- * Histogram: You can use the Histogram panel to get an idea of how well your image is working. You can see your image's brightness and highlight and shadow areas. This panel helps you to see when your image is about to look okay or when it's over- or underexposed.
- * Layers: You can create a huge number of adjustments on a layer. You can adjust the layer's background color, blend mode, opacity, and layer mask.
- * Paintbrush: This tool works very much like the Quick Selection tool in the Adjustments panel. This tool enables you to

Q: Is there something like `delay()` for Akka actors? I want to delay a message for a second. I tried object `CallActor` extends `Actor` { `def receive = { case _ => Future { Thread.sleep(1000) sender! "Hello" } } }` However this gives me `java.lang.IllegalStateException: Scheduler is not attached to a Worker!` If I try something like object `CallActor` extends `Actor` { `def receive = { case _ => sender! "Hello" } }` object `TestActor` extends `Actor` { `def receive = { case _ => // How can I let it run after a second? } }` I can't use an abstract `Actor` extending class like the first one because I can't call methods from my subclass `A`: You could use implicit conversions, similar to how to delay a future in Scala. Define a method that returns a future: object `FutureDelay` { `def apply(delay: Int)(f: => Unit): Future[Unit] = { Future.successful(()) .map { _ => Thread.sleep(delay) f } } }` and use it like: `import scala.concurrent.Future object Main extends App { implicit def f = FutureDelay(1000) val f = Future.successful(()) f.map { _ => println("Hello") } }` Students rejected for university degrees found to have plagiarised and not paid all fees for courses This article is more than 9 years old This article is more than 9 years old About 100 students have been disciplined for academic misconduct, including cheating and plagiarism, in incidents uncovered by auditors for the Senate last month. Could the second half be the difference? Posted by Scott Whitehead on August 26, 2011, 10:11 AM EDT AP The Colts certainly came out of the preseason 2-0. They now have two official starts in the books and yet two-fifths of the starters from the team that failed to win the Super Bowl in 2009 are no longer on the roster. Before any of us get too high on the Pacers, let's remember they missed the playoffs last year for the first time in franchise history. They went 8-9 in March. The Pacers finished the regular season 9-8. This team was better than the team that won 41 games last year. Still, that 11-41 record was an improvement over last year's 19-63 performance. The Pacers have four first round picks this year. That's a lot of picks that will not have to take anyone off the floor to get a great player in the draft. Only one of the top five teams in the league has four first round picks and they are about to take out their 2014 draft picks in a trade. That's a lot of first-round draft choices the Pacers are getting. All of a sudden the Pacers are the favorites in the Eastern Conference. There's a large gap between second and third place and then the next five teams are within six games of each other. That's why it's never too early to be wondering what is going on behind the scenes on the Pacers bench. It's not easy to create chemistry between so many new players. That can take time. Injuries can also be a hindrance. However, the best player on the Pacers is their coach. Roy Hibbert averaged 18.6 points and 15.9 rebounds last year, but he also missed time due to injury. He has not played well in the preseason. Hibbert was 9-26 with three points and three rebounds in the team's first two games. He was also called for six fouls in the two games, though his refusal to get back on defense earned him a technical. Hibbert is having a difficult time getting comfortable in Indianapolis. He seems to be missing his home. It's doubtful he will make the adjustment on his own and unless he does, the Pacers will not be winning in the second half of the season. Larry Bird is in the process of
