The authors report a very unusual case of a common mesenteric arteriovenous fistula. This misdiagnosis was due to the presentation of the patient with non specific abdominal symptoms and a non specific CT finding. Despite a non specific cutaneous manifestation of the fistula, the diagnosis was confirmed by selective superior mesenteric angiography. In fact, this unusual localization of a mesenteric fistula is the first diagnosis of this particular malformation reported in the literature.Q: How to do table grouping in jq?
