1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a scanner comprising a scanning mirror that is rotatably supported around a shaft and that is driven by a motor. 2. Description of the Related Art As an image forming apparatus that scans optically a document image on an original to form an image on a recording medium such as a print sheet, there is known a hand scanner that optically reads an image recorded on a printing paper, a print sheet or the like placed on a platen glass. The hand scanner is generally provided with a main housing having therein a light source for supplying a light beam, a scanning mirror and optical components such as a driver, a guide shaft and the like. Further, an optical unit is integrally formed with the main housing. In the hand scanner of this type, the scanning mirror is driven by a motor in order to optically scan the original image and the recorded image on the recording medium. In the hand scanner, the original image is irradiated with the light beam from the light source, and the reflected light from the original image is directed to the optical components such as the driver and the guide shaft. At this time, the scanning mirror is rotated about the shaft in a direction that is perpendicular to the main surface of the platen glass. In this state, the reflected light from the original image is guided to a sensor of a reflection type. Thereby, the original image is optically scanned by the scanning mirror. In the hand scanner having the above structure, the scanning mirror is rotated by the motor that drives the scanning mirror by a predetermined angle. In this case, the number of revolutions of the motor is detected by a rotation detecting sensor of a light receiving type or the like. The number of revolutions of the motor is controlled based on the detected value. In this manner, the scanning mirror is rotated such that an accurate original image can be optically scanned. The motor that drives the scanning mirror can be used not only in the hand scanner but also in an electric motor provided in a flat-bed scanner. Also, the motor can be used in an X-Y carriage motor in a copier that generally comprises a flat-bed scanner and a printing unit. The light source, the scanning mirror and the optical components are fixed on the main housing. In order to make easy the assembling of these components, it is preferred that the components are affixed on the main housing by the insert molding of resin. In this case, the main housing

Q: How to add functionalities on two buttons? I would like to add a functionality to two buttons. That is, only one button can be clicked at a time (A if one is clicked, B if B is clicked, etc.), while if one is clicked, the other button is disabled. A: You can use the.setEnabled(true) and.setEnabled(false) methods. E.g. button1.setEnabled(true); button2.setEnabled(true); button1.setEnabled(false); button2.setEnabled(false); A: For future reference, if you want to make it reusable, have a look at the standard Java enum, which would allow you to have a constant representing what combination of disabled states should be used for the buttons. enum Disabled { A_ONLY(true), // no B is ever enabled A_B_D(true), // both A and B are always disabled B_ONLY(true), // only B is ever enabled B_A_D(true), // both B and A are always disabled B_A_D(true), // all 3 are always disabled private final boolean disabled; Disabled(boolean disabled) { this.disabled = disabled; } public boolean isEnabled() { return this.disabled; } } Then you'd call setEnabled(Disabled.A_ONLY.isEnabled()) to set up A_ONLY mode. ..5)=-1##f)retum#f my %subs = (# normal-case 'dq' => '\d+0x[a-fA-F0-9]+', 'up' => '\d+0x[A-F0-9]+', 'us' => '\d+0x[A-F0-9]+', 'ps' => '\d+0x[A-F0-9]+', 'pg
