What's new in Cat Swap Tiles:

. People all over the world will be able to buy the original soundtrack, with a brand new version of the album presented by the Hollywood Station label, hosted by famed DJ in the UK, John Wilson. This release will be produced with love by the team of PURE FRANCE and Halsted-Schultz. The soundtrack features fresh mixes of 2 of the tracks that Jean-Michel released on his album : "Pous-de-Lévrier" and "When The Fun's Over". The new soundtrack will be available on the 20th of July in CD and digital format, and it's repackaged in a digipack. The original version that I was able to listen to was the one called HERE. By the time I wrote this I'd gone back and listened to both variations of the soundtrack and can now compare them. I'm told the new one is better, and indeed it is. The differences are the mixing, some of which is like a switch out of a game (on the Jean-Michel one you get a few bars of music, then they start playing the main piece before repeating in the next chapter), and also that the new one is tweaked a little to be live. It's been homogenised a bit (although still sounds amazing and is the perfect companion for "When The Fun's Over"), and it's been cut to around 55 minutes rather than the original 78. I honestly don't know what I'm going to do with the new one. I might add a few bits of new stuff on top or listen to the Jean-Michel one at a later date when I'm a bit less emotional, or on cycle. I've enjoyed both versions a lot and I'm really looking forward to having the original on vinyl, which I just love, but I'm also looking forward to the new one being available and getting a second listen. Anyway, when this was posted on version 1.0 of this blog (Oct 2015.1.10), Jean-Michel was still working on producing his next album and had two more singles to release. Here they are: He also said he was in touch with the "person in charge of the INDEPENDENT COPY" and that he'd asked for it to be finished no later than 2nd November, and that nobody was going to be held to the deadline, really. Of course some were. We all know that. In February he posted this fantastic
