Once you've downloaded the software, you'll want to go to the 'Account' tab and click on the eShop icon. Then, in the eShop window, you should see the 'Software' category. Choose Flipnote Studio 3D and press 'Buy'. The pricing options are shown, with the 'Additional Install fee' option. Select the 'Initial data transfer fee' option. Once you've selected your options, your software should be downloading. You will then have to wait until the next day. Once the software is installed, you'll want to launch 'flipnote studio 3d' and then choose your 3DS as your new device. Now, all you have to do is launch your chosen game or app you'd like to make into an animation and follow the simple instruction and get animating. Here are some more tutorials on how to get animating with Flipnote Studio 3D. The graphics of Flipnote Studio 3D look a lot better than Flipnote Studio. Flipnotes were once limited to black and white, but now you can add colors or even 3D. A video tutorial on how to get using Flipnote Studio 3D is below. All in all, I'm really happy with the DS for its simple functions and familiarity. If someone were to pick up the Nintendo DSi today, they could have a basic understanding of what Flipnote Studio is all about and even if they have no idea where to begin, they can easily get started. That's the thing about Flipnote Studio: It caters to people of any sort of skill level. That, and Gemin has developed a somewhat of a loyal following by making content he can share with fans of all kinds. Heyzogame has a similar sort of thing going on, so it's not hard for artists to pick up the console and make their own projects, Gemin adds.
