there are plenty of more highlights from this album. one of the best is the ominousg.o.d.y. featuring andre 3000. the song deals with the recent murder of tupac shakur. the song is very political and it just represents the environment around big bois life at that time. other highlights include the lady, big boi and andre 3000s performance album closing song and ghetto, which is the bass-heavy, drum-heavy, house-music influenced track featuring mr. fingers. if you want to hear how big bois became a southern rapper, the song is a great listen. another highlight is the playful bama boogie which is a freestyle between big boi, andre 3000 and cee-lo green. there is also a lot of humor on the album. the song, showtin time is a brilliant, uptempo track that has a hilarious concept. it is a song about a crazed woman who follows big boi and andre 3000 everywhere they go. big boi and andre 3000 get her tickets to the concert and she starts tearing down the building. what makes the track funnier is the same woman who tracks them down becomes their biggest fan. while speakerboxxx/the love below isnt as political as da breakdown, its still a powerful project. the album is a testament to how dedicated outkast are to their art. the album is a perfect combination of lyrical genius and technical prowess. and just as important is the fact that the album is one of the best releases of all-time, regardless of genre. the video for hey ya! was a huge thing to us. the music video was done before [the album was] done, but for us, the visual was more important. we didnt just want an image. we wanted to go beyond that. we wanted to go beyond the lyrics. and thats the way the video ends up looking, too. we had the concept. we couldnt have that thing blow up and theres nothing there. you gotta have visual images. you cant just have the visual image of the boy in a suit.

ive always wanted to do a song on the album where every single instrument has a background of a different voice. so, on his verses, he has a really female voice, he has a really fast voice, he has a crazy voice, he has a bass voice, a guitar voice. it was just that many. i think he was a combination of all the singers ive ever heard in my life. on his verses, he doesnt even have to talk. he just moves his lips and its the coolest thing. thats what i was trying to get on the radio, an album that had enough sass, that you could just listen to it all the way through and not even have to say a word. the album came out like a week before we were supposed to be in the studio for an album. then we started recording and we were like, it would be nice to put this on an album. we didn't expect it to be a hit, but we just liked it. now im not trying to be a comedian, but if you love something and you want to express that love, it comes out in your music. i believe in the philosophy that, a long time ago, god created all things. well, we didnt. we created it all. we wrote the lyrics to the whole album. thats why the album has got so many different personalities and characters. even the way im singing on the record, when im on the fade, im actually singin like a girl. i wanted the album to be a little bit more strange than what we usually do. it was a creative endeavor. we wanted to go to the darkest place. we actually wanted to kill everybody on the planet. thats what the theme of the album was. it was like, im going to kill everybody. on love below, i do a song called mr. lonely, and i was like, no, i want to put a different texture on it. i want to do a hip-hop song with a r&b chorus. so, i made a song with four or five verses, and then i put this female vocal with a very fast thing on it. then, the chorus is just a slow, soulful thing with andr 3000s vocals on it. 5ec8ef588b
