Here we demonstrate how easy it is to extract 3D modeling data from Virtual CRASH 3 and use it to determine the animation path inside. NET. The code below is for exporting data to .NET. The data will be shown under the 3D environment. If you want to see what it looks like using Windows Forms, you can copy this one and load it into the Windows Forms UI. // VERY SIMPLE! // Creates a project file to use this library. // You don't need to write this to use it in a third party application. // All of this is written in C# because I'm using C#. // Instead of doing this you can use a C++ library
