if your driver is not listed, you may have installed it incorrectly or you may not have the correct permissions. to add a driver to the list, right-click on the device name and select update driver. the driver update wizard will open and you will have to follow the on-screen prompts to finish the installation process. if your driver does not show in the list of installed drivers, that could mean that the computer cannot find your driver. you can choose to select a different driver on the next available line. you can also select test settings to see if the driver is actually installed on your computer. if everything is working correctly, you should be able to find the project in the project panel. there are a couple of things to be aware of before you start creating applications using the delphi ide and the delphi ds150e usb driver download: any changes to code, for example a change to the database schema, will not be available until the project is recompiled. to test, just save a new version of your application and then close and reopen the ide. if the project has a bad build then a warning message will be displayed when you try to save a new version of your application. if you are sure that the build is correct, then just click on the ok button to save the new version of your application. each project contains a list of units available for use in the project. the units are available to all applications that use the project. you will find the units in the ide, just click on the plus icon to expand the units panel. 5ec8ef588b
